

"I wish for you all, each of you, to have your own motive for indignation. It is precious. When something outrages you as I was outraged by Nazism, then people become militant, strong, and engaged. They join this current of history, and the great current of history must continue thanks to each individual. And this current goes towards more justice."

Stéphane HESSEL (2010). Indignez-vous! Montpellier : Indigènes Éditions.
